

logear Avior line

Posted on Aug 25 2009 at 09:38 AM PDT

u

logear has just released its latest Avior series of gear that will definitely be attractive to anyone with a home theater system. Why do we say that? Well, the Avior series comprise of a collection of switches, splitters, HDMI adapters, cables, extenders and wireless USB transmitters, with the HDMI Control Center being the one that is most interesting to check out. After all, the HDMI Control Center will hook up a bunch of HDMI devices, ranging from Blu-ray players to computers, giving one access through a 2.4GHz wireless keyboard. Guess you can be the master of your home entertainment destiny without having to get up and leave the couch at all, thanks to the integrated laser trackball and scroll wheel on the wireless keyboard.

Source |  Comment | Share on

Read more about: avior, logear, logear avior,
